Brisbane Chinese Culture & Arts Festival

Start from 1998, the Mainland Chinese Society Queensland (MCSQ) receives funding from Brisbane City Council and Queensland State Government to organise the Brisbane Chinese Cultural & Arts Festival each year. The Festival is aiming at creating, connecting and celebrating the best of arts and cultures from Chinese Australians and other diversified multicultural backgrounds in Queensland. Thousands of people from culturally different communities in Brisbane are attracted to the festival every year, broadening their understandings of diverse cultures each other. The festival is now recognised as a major culturally diverse and celebrated event in Queensland, and has become a highlight in Brisbane's cultural calendar.

Each year the Festival sets a specific theme that presents a series of cultural experiences ranging from art displays to live performances in various styles. In the past years, a number of top level Australian artists have performed on the festival stage, including Maestro digeridoo musician William Baton, internationally renowned Queensland Ballet led by world famous dancer Li Cunxin, world leading beatbox Tom Thum, international concert pianist Roger Cui, popular Southern Cross Soloist and BOB Brass, as well as world class Chinese Australian cellist Kejia Wang, new rising opera star Haotian Qi and etc. The Festival has also won international reputation, attracting many significant artists and performing groups from overseas to present on the festival, that makes this unique culture event more acclaim and spectacular.

The Brisbane Chinese Culture & Arts Festival seeks to foster stronger connections and a collaboration between Brisbane's Chinese Australian society and other local communities through this series of festive events. MCSQ is honoured to have the government officials, politicians, celebrities and communities to support and present at the festival each time.
